A Treasure Hunting Day

Last Friday, I went treasure hunting with my friend Will in Cheung Chau. We sailed there by a pirate ship. We were excited. "We will be rich!" we shouted.

When we arrived at Cheung Chau, we argued.

I said, "Let's go straight."

"That's not what the map says," Will said.

I thought I was right. Will thought he was right too. We had a fight.

When we were fighting, we dropped the map into the sea by accident. "Oh no!" we shouted.

"It's you who made me drop the map!" I said.

Will said angrily, "No! You dropped the map by yourself!"

I said, "Don't argue! Let's find the map together."

We jumped into the sea to find the map. We found it but it was wet. We could not see the map clearly. In the end, we did not find any treasures. We were sad because we were still poor.
